Foreword:

As per the aims and objectives of assessment and reaccreditation, the HEIs have to put the efforts to attain the core values of NAAC. The Best Practice is the technique or methodology through which HEIs can monitor regularly whether they are approaching to the desired results. As an institute of higher education our college tries to serve for the cause of quality. We try to inculcate the social, moral and ethical values in our students in order to make them the true and devoted citizens of our nation. As a nation we can grow only when we will be able to create integrity and harmony in our society. Ours is a diverse country and we need solidarity to grow in all the aspects of modern life. Through the set Best Practices we have been trying to deliver high value impact. IQAC of our college has set the Best Practices by considering the mission and goals of our institute. Along with we have considered global concerns, national issues, and local contexts, nature of our students, their competencies, and infrastructural facilities available in the college. More over IQAC performs the role of monitoring the continuity and improvement in the set practices.

Lack of employment and personal grooming is the problem of our region. The ability to communicate in English is also a problem peculiar to the region. Motivation, placement facilities and computer education are the necessary aspects of the time but the students do not get that much exposure to these objects. The management skills, marketing skills, the skills related to accounting and tally can give the students to get the employment and also these can open them the paths to entrepreneurship. The era is of competition and everywhere they have to face it. In order to enable them competent and confident they need some guidance and orientation covering all the aforesaid aspects. Hence, we have set the first best practice:

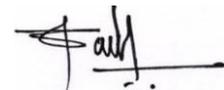

BEST PRACTICE- II

Professional Orientation through Students' Personality
Development Programme (SPDP)

Dr. S. B. Karande

(IQAC, Coordinator)

Dr. S. K. Patil

(Principal)

1. Introduction:

The College runs various curricular, co-curricular and extra-curricular activities and ensures that they are in tune with local, regional and global changes in social, cultural and educational fields. The college tries to create awareness among the students about environmental, illiteracy, gender equity, social harmony, superstitions and other social and cultural issues that are seen in our society. As our college is located in a rural area, the girl students face many problems related to gender issues. If we see in a broader way we notice that our male students or students in general face many social, cultural, linguistic and regional barriers pursuing the degrees in higher education. Hence our students face problems in their professional development.

Ours is a rural area where our students lack facilities of coaching related to competitive exams, spoken English, there personality development tutoring and counseling facilities. Here we try to provide them orientation activities related to their overall personality development, professional development, social awareness and communicative competences.

2

Professional Orientation through Students' Personality Development Programme (SPDP)Objectives of the Practice:

Student orientation is the opportunity to engage with students from first year to the final year of their education introducing them to the college, connecting them to the community and making them enable to understand the entire community and the world. In short it aims at expanding students' understanding from individual level to local or community level and then to the global level. A successful orientation gives student's confidence that they have all the information and resources they need to be successful. Hence while setting this Best Practice we have following broad goals:

1. Creating welcoming and energetic atmosphere.
2. Conduct ice-breaker activities.
3. Promote engagement in college traditions and build community.
4. Provide relevant campus resources.
5. Encourage involvement in social events.
6. Provide ongoing support.
7. Establish membership opportunities.
8. Deliver information through a platforms like 'Students' Personality Development Programme', 'Competitive and Banking Exam Guidance Cell', 'Career Guidance and Counseling Centre' etc.

In the general sense we set the following aims and objectives while setting the Best Practice:

- 1. Improving participation of students in various curricular, co-curricular and extra-curricular activities.*
- 2. Improving project management skills.*
- 3. Individual and Holistic growth of students.*
- 4. Enabling the students understand the importance of team work and developing Team Building work skill.*
- 5. Improving the productivity of the students.*
- 6. Developing the communication skills.*
- 7. Developing the skills like Relationship building, leadership and creativity.*
- 8. Enabling them for better decision making.*
- 9. To lead them to improve their financial capabilities.*
- 10. Developing their overall personality.*
- 11. To inculcate the professional ethos.*
- 12. To help them build networking skills.*
- 13. To motivate the students to build and modify their future.*

2. The Context:

B. P. Sulakhe Commerce College, Barshi is located in rural part of Solapur District of Maharashtra. It is drought prone area where because of the scarcity of water people struggle for their livelihood. So here the parents and the community expect that the students after the completion of their education should get the jobs or they must begin their own business. But here the students have limited sources of professional guidance facilities to enhance their employability skills. So it is necessary that professional orientation should begin at college from the first year of graduation. Professional orientations are important in so far as they address an individual's specific abilities and developing them for the specific career. As ours is a commerce college we try to focus on the career opportunities in commerce and try to address the essential abilities for these careers. So we have designed the Best Practice under which we have organized special programs that will help in developing professional orientations in educational environments by providing students with the appropriate support and by helping them to recognize their physical, cognitive and personal trait and abilities. This practice assists students in finding careers in harmony with their knowledge, traits and skills.

These all metamorphosed into the BEST PRACTICE of our college.

BEST PRACTICE-2

Professional Orientation through Students' Personality development Programme
(SPDP)

3. The Practice:

A professional orientation towards a specific job involves many factors, including personal motivation and a personal desire to pursue the job which, in turn, entail gaining an in-depth understanding of what the job requires and adopting the values and principles inherent to the job. The individual who has reached this level of understanding with respect to a specific job or career has acquired a high degree of professional awareness that incorporates a system of images, beliefs, ideas, feelings and approaches constituted within the individual. So under this practice we have organized the lectures of eminent scholars, entrepreneurs for motivating the students. For the development of communication skills we have organized special programs in Spoken English and for developing communicative and linguistic competencies we have organized special lectures on English grammar and communication skills. We organize a special One Week Students' Personality Development Programme (SPDP) in which we cover the various aspects which will help students for getting acquainted with their personality traits and abilities.

- We offer a variety of personal development and organizational programmes to meet our students' needs
- National Service Scheme (NSS) for extension activities and developing students understanding of the community in which they live.
- NCC for discipline.
- Competitive Exam and Banking Exam Guidance through a special Cell.
- Career Counseling
- Placement cell for students' progression.

4. Evidence of Success:

The college has planned the orientation activities meticulously and organized them effectively. In this orientation through SPDP we aim not only the accumulation of knowledge and development of skills of students in their chosen specialty, but also we want to deepen their interest in the future profession. We intend to make them able to form an idea of professionally important qualities necessary for future activities; there is a formation of professional plans, attitudes and professional orientation. The programmes organized helped them for building their confidence level. As orientation is continuous process, we have plan of activities which accommodates students according to their needs and classes. We arrange some regular activities in the college while every year we conduct 'Students' Personality Development Programme (SPDP). Under this programme we organize a lecture series which covers the topics of the students' interest. In this programme we offer the freedom to the students in planning and organizing the whole course. They voluntarily introduce the guests and resource persons; host the program by following the protocols of the formal functions. Here we provide them opportunities for their leadership skills. They get the inputs for getting jobs and entrepreneurship.

5. Problems Encountered & Resources Required:

- In the process of training the consistency is the major factor which can lead to success. But students begin to realize the inconsistency of the existing ideas about the chosen profession with the real content of the psychologist.
- We see variety of motives in the students so it is very difficult to encompass all.
- Lack of theoretical analysis of psychological and pedagogical studies while conducting the activities.
- Since the training of the profession is a stage of professional biography and life of the student as a whole but we lack biographical details and social background of the students.
- Getting proper experts and industry partners is another problem as the college is located in rural area where we do not have MIDC.
- Converting Professional orientation to professional self-determination is another issue while conducting this programme.
